If you're looking for a detailed discussion of all the potential relationship pairings on the various Star Trek series look elsewhere. If you're looking for Star Trek spaceship porn this is the place.

Over at the ThomasHuntFilms YouTube page they have condensed all of the original and Next Generation Star Trek films down to just the scenes with the ships. It's an interesting watch for two reasons. First of all, it really highlights the evolution of effects between the movies starting with the physical models used by Star Trek: The Motion Picture and advancing on to the CGI used in the Next Generation movies. Secondly, it is crazy how little screen time the ships get in some of these movies. The Motion Picture clocks in about 25 minutes of ship time but several of the films have less ten minutes total.
